“ My sympathies to Eds family. Ed and I grew up together in Ranburn Woods/41st Av area and went to Blessed Sacrament. We shared a special bond then because my birthday and his patron saint feast day (St. Edward the Confessor) were the same. Fondest memories are train trip as 8th graders to Wash. D.C (I still have pics of a smiling dapper Ed on the train) swimming at Combs pool and getting in trouble be it throwing snowballs at cars or with Sr. Elaine at Bl. Sacrament. I regret not having seen him since the early days and that I wont be able to attend the service.

“ My dad was a compassionate man. He worried about everyone and was always quick to lend a hand. There was nothing that he wouldnt try to fix even if he didnt think he could do it. Growing up my friends all thought my dad was cool because of the music he listened to and the motorcycle he rode. He loved Metallica and my friends knew they could find the latest music at our house. He liked to rent movies and play them through the stereo. The more the house shook the better! He was a fun guy to have around and I couldnt have asked for a better dad. He was so proud to be Jacobs grandpa and they shared such a strong bond. Dad you will always be missed but never forgotten.

“Eddie Basketball games at home. Bicycle riding everywhere around town. Baseball you were a real star no one could hit your fast ball. Hanging from a rope swing upside down stuck and choking a little I ran out to give you a lift. Now you made it through the agony of dying - its over Praise God. Save me a place up there Ed. Love you forever Brother Mike...

“ Im so sorry we can not be there and share this sad time sad for us but triumphant for Ed. He will surely be missed. I have some fond memories. I prepared a few (ha) meals for him when he and Sherry were dating. I remember when I went to Indiana to help Sherry when she had surgery. Ed drew me a map so I could go to the hospital without getting lost. I even found places to shop along the way. I remember one day Ed came in from work carrying ARMLOADS of Pepsis. They were on sale. We had a good laugh on that one. That was our favorite drink. I remember him teasing Missy and holding something up SO high and she would jump that far to get it. Ed always made John and I feel welcome when we visited. Once we visited them before Lisa was born. He and Sherry was living in a one bedroom apartment. Sara had just come to live with us. Jim and Becky were small. We spent a couple or so nights with them. We were wall to wall sleeping bags in the living/dining room. Those were fun times. I hope all of you can remember the fun times and not dwell on the bad. Life is full of both good and bad. We are praying for all of you. Mom & Dad/GrannyGrandad/Friend
